ALLIED EXPERTS ARE BAFFLED BY GERMAN PROBLEM

Nation Must Not Be Permitted to Pay With Cheap Goods.

Predicts Prosperity When Germans Get Minds Off of War.

Birmingham, England, Feb. 5.—Premier Lloyd George in a speech here today dealing with the recent meeting of the allied supreme council said that before the last election he laid it down that Germany was morally bound to pay for the war damage she had inflicted but that one could only get from a debtor what he was capable of paying. He asserted in this connection that Germany must not be allowed to pay in a way that would injure the country receiving payment, by cheap goods, for example.

Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that Germany, being temporarily bankrupt represented a baffling difficulty to the experts in this connection. With all their difficulties in mind, he said, the allies had reached certain conclusions last week and had presented a bill which was framed on the basis of Germany's prosperity. If Germany were not prosperous, she could not pay and if she were prosperous she could afford to pay.

Dr. Simons, the German foreign minister was an honest and sincere statesman, and he had said that he meant to carry out Germany's obligations if he possibly could, continued the premier. The German minister said that he had not received the bill in full but he could have it at any time for it was ready. Mr. Lloyd George declared. Once the German people got their minds off the war and on to peace they would soon be come prosperous, the premier predicted.

SIX HUNDRED DOLLAR ROLL OF MONEY FOUND INTACT IN DEBRIS OF WRECK

A roll of money, amounting to $660 and with the bills burned through the center, was found in the burned debris of car which was telescoped in the wreck early Tuesday morning east of the city.

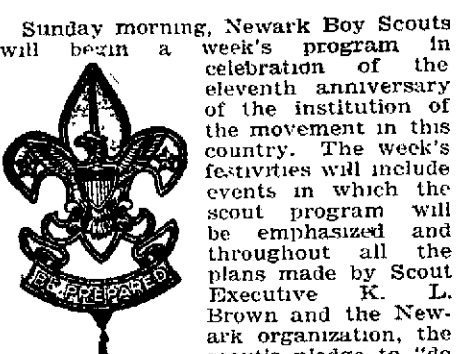

The money, which was rolled up and without any protecting cover, was unearthed by the section men who were cleaning up the wreckage. It was turned over to I. O. Stoffer, Pennsylvania detective, who sent the money to the Columbus office of the company.

How it was possible for the money to escape destruction in a fire, which burned away most of the bodies of the wreck victims and all the inflammable materials on the coach, is puzzling the railroad officials.

According to information from Columbus the second wife of one of the victims, Melvin A. Pack of Arsenal avenue, had instituted divorce proceedings against him a week prior to the wreck and he had drawn his money from the bank. According to relatives the amount was said to be close to $1,000 and he had some of it on his person at the time of the accident.

BOY SCOUTS BEGIN WEEK'S PROGRAM CELEBRATING ELEVENTH ANNIVERSARY

Growth of Movement Has Been Rapid and Nearly Half Million Are Now Enrolled—Brief History of Movement and Outline of Its Objects.

Sunday morning, Newark Boy Scouts will begin a week's program in celebration of the eleventh anniversary of the institution of the movement in this country. The week's activities will include events in which the scout program will be emphasized and throughout all the plans made by Scout Executive K. L. Brown and the Newark organization, the scout's pledge to "do a good turn daily" will be emphasized and Newark citizens asked to join with the boys in this custom.

The scout movement in America is an adaptation of the movement started in England by Robert Baden Powell. The organization is incorporated under the laws of the district of Columbia, August 8, 1910, and is now operating under a charter granted by a special act of Congress June 15, 1916.

Its aim is better citizenship. Founded by men of broad vision, the scout program was built on things boys like to do. These boys and activities were incorporated into the program in such a way that their execution develops in the boy the ability to do things for himself, and others, his knowledge of God's great outdoors, teaches him patriotism, courage, self reliance and kindred virtues.

Emphasis is placed on the scout oath and law. In the scout oath, the boy pledges, "On my Honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the scout law to help other people at all times, to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

The scout laws are 12 in number and are of such a nature that any scout, whatever his race or color, can subscribe to them without offense to his conscience or without disloyalty to his religious belief. These laws are: A scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent. Effort is made by the scout officials from the scout commissioner on down to each assistant scoutmaster to impress each boy the importance to him individually the observance of these laws. He is taught the value of trustworthiness, the importance of loyalty, the advantage of being helpful, the fun in being friendly, the need of being courteous, the satisfaction in being kind, the necessity of obedience, the benefits of cheerfulness, the common sense of being thrifty, the value to his character of being brave, the personal satisfaction and value of being clean, and the spiritual need of being reverent.

Most of these laws are so plain that it is impossible to misinterpret them. Some people who oppose scouting because they do not understand it, find a stone of the laws points to which they object. The 12th scout law, "A scout is reverent," is plainly explained in all scout literature in these words, "He is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in the matter of customs and religion."

In few other organizations in the world do persons of as many different religious beliefs mingle with as little conflict as in the scout movement. The scout executive does not care what his scout's religious belief may be so long as he is faithful to that religion and grants the same tolerant consideration to others.

The 10th scout law, says that a scout is brave. The scoutmaster emphasizes the fact that moral courage is just as important or more important than physical courage.

A scout who lives up to his teaching which he receives from the troop meeting cannot fail to be benefited by his scout experience. There are too many testimonials in the hands of scoutmasters to deny this fact. And these same scout masters have not yet heard of any scout who has suffered any ill consequences of knowledge gained in his scout work.

The scout organization has its headquarters in New York where every scout who has met the qualifications required for membership, is registered. The work is directed by three national council officers which are Scout Executive, President and William H. Taft Vice President. The active head of the organization is James E. West with the title of Chief Scout Executive. Daniel Carter Beard is his ranking officer with the title of National Scout Commissioner but most of the activities are directed by Mr. West. Nearly a half million scouts are registered at national headquarters.

In Newark the scouts are affiliated with the Newark Boy Scouts of America. The active work is carried on under the direction of Scout Executive K. L. Brown, with L. P. Franklin as his ranking officer with the title of Scout Commissioner. The Scoutmasters and assistants are all subordinate to the commissioner and the executive.

Newark business and professional men are members of the council, and officers in the organization. An executive committee acts in an advisory capacity to the scout executive and makes policy which is not already laid down by the national council, are laid down by the local council.

WILSON THINKS LARGE ARMY IS STILL NECESSARY

Vetoes Joint Resolution Reducing Army to 175,000 Men.

Says World Conditions Do Not Warrant Change in Policy.

Washington, Feb. 5.—President Wilson today vetoed the joint resolution directing the war department to stop army recruiting until the force is reduced to 175,000 men.

Returning the measure to the house, the president said he was unable to see in the condition of the world at large or in the needs of the United States "any change" that would justify a restriction upon the minimum enlisted strength of 280,000 men provided for in the recently enacted army reorganization bill.

Quoting the resolution as restricting the enlisted strength of the army to 175,000 men, the president said:

"No provision is made in the resolution for the preservation of any proportional strength in the combatant corps of the army and a mere discontinuance of enlistment would, for a long time preserve the staff corps disproportionately enlisted and the combatant corps insufficiently manned to maintain the proportioning which ought to be assured in any army of 175,000 men is to be efficient in proportion to its aggregate number."

"On the fourth day of June 1920, I signed a bill passed by the present congress providing for a reorganization of the army. Because of the profoundly disturbed conditions of the world and in order that full benefit might accrue to the people of the United States from the lessons of the world war as to what, under modern conditions, is required to be the nucleus of an efficient army, the war department had recommended an army of approximately 500,000 men. The congress after prolonged consideration authorized the reorganization of the army on the basis of an enlisted strength of approximately 280,000 men."

"I regret that I am not able to see in the condition of the world at large or in the needs of the United States any such change as would justify the restriction upon that minimum which is proposed by the house joint resolution."

HOLD MAN IN PRISON WHEN WIFE DISAPPEARS

New Castle, Pa., Feb. 5.—T. A. White whose legal wife has been missing since December 23, a day after he married Mrs. Mame Longstreet, must stay in jail until the mystery is solved.

White is now in jail on charges of bigamy and adultery, and to prevent him from gaining liberty under bond, a writ of habeas corpus ordering him to produce Mrs. White has been sent.

White married Mrs. Longstreet on December 22 in Philadelphia, the next day he returned to his legal wife and the last seen of him was when he was seen going away with him. Search of abandoned coal mines near here, after rumors that White had been seen near them, disclosed nothing.

Talk of seizing White from the sheriff and "putting a noose around his neck" is adding to the excitement the case has aroused here.

GREEK CABINET HAS RESIGNED

Premier Rhallis Surrenders His Portfolio as Result of Ministerial Crisis at Athens.

Athens, Feb. 5.—Conferences with political leaders were held today by King Constantine in an effort to solve the ministerial crisis which developed during the present week and culminated last night in the resignation of the Rhallis cabinet. It was believed that M. Gounaris, minister of war or M. Katozeropoulos, minister of finance, would be asked to head the new ministry.

Premier Rhallis had insisted that the head of the Greek delegation which will attend the near east conference to be held in London beginning in February 21 M. Gounaris, on the other hand, claiming the honor of being the Greek spokesman, cited his influence in parliament and the adherence of the Greek press as his qualification. The friction between the premier and his minister of war became so marked that it became known early yesterday that M. Rhallis had decided to hand his resignation to the king.

M. Rhallis stated he would explain the reason which prompted him to resign when a new government had been constituted. He told the Associated Press that he had made a recommendation to the king that M. Gounaris be selected as his successor.

Their jolly, rollicking entertainment, check full of laughter, music and pretty girls, is entitled "Look Who's Here," and the husband to all intents and purposes commits suicide to allow the two to be free to marry. Suspicion, however, points to the wife's admirer, who has now gone to India, where the suspected man is a major in the British army engaged in a campaign against the rebels. Returning to England the mystery is cleared up in a most startling and satisfactory manner.

COLLIER BEGAN STAGE CAREER WHEN 10 YEARS OLD.
The large salary of three-fifty a week, and one $1.50 extra for handling the baggage, proved too tempting an offer for ten-year-old Willie Collier to resist, so he became an actor. To do this, he ran away from school and managed to elude his parents for several weeks while he trouped with a company presenting "Pinafore." Finally he was captured and returned to school a much dress hat, was adapted by enterprising American milliners as a sailor, which became the vogue for street and sports wear. So "The Merry Widow" came to mean a hat to millions of American women, before they met the widow at all in the theater. In fact, this hat blazed the trail for touring companies, and became the most striking advance publicity in years.

Colonel Savage himself was so impressed and amused by the unique advertising of the hat for the play, that he hoped for the same possibilities in his productions that followed. But nothing happened. When "Shavings," for instance, was produced at the Auditorium last season at the Knickerbocker theater, New York, Colonel Savage admits he held out no hope for benefit from millinery. Simplicity was the keynote of this Cape Cod comedy; there was little opportunity for smartness or new styles. However, on the very night of his New York opening a Shavings hat was inspired and created, that threatens to overshadow even Merry Widow millinery in appeal and popularity.

"BEWARE THE BRIDE."
"Beware of the Bride," a William Fox production starring Eileen Percy, will be seen at the Alhambra theatre for two days beginning Monday. The combination of a clever comedienne, a master of the art of writing farce comedy (to wit, Edgar Franklin) and the direction by Howard M. Mitchell, who guided "The Husband Hunter," Miss Percy's latest success, should insure an immensely pleasing picture.
Miss Percy's supporting cast contains such capable players in the world war of screened fun as Walter McGrail, Hallan Cooley, Harry Dunkinson, Jane Miller, Ethel Shannon and George W. Rains.
The comedy situations are said to be of an unusually hilarious nature, and take place chiefly in the apartments of two sets of newlyweds and a wealthy bachelor, a former admirer of one of the brides. A masquerade ball, a suit of armor, a crabbed uncle, a scandalous gossiping cousin and a young husband who is called away by his firm in the midst of his honeymoon provide the laughs—which come thick and fast without offense.

"NEGLECTED WIVES"
Featuring Anne Luther
The dramatic photoplay production, "Neglected Wives," which will be the feature at the Grand theater Sunday and Monday is a screen version of the play "Why Women Sin," whose successful run on some of the largest English speaking stages in the world extended over a period of several years and is well remembered. Miss Anne Luther, the well known and popular screen favorite is starred and is supported by a brilliant cast of notable players including Claire Whitney, Charles Gerard, E. J. Hadelin, Baby Ivy Ward, and many others.
The story presents a dramatic interlarding of intrigue, love, romance and adventure portrayed with a mastery that holds its audience in absorbed interest.
Dorothy Pemberton is a womanly woman, who feels too keenly her husband's neglect. While her husband is so absorbed in his work that he cannot understand why, with every comfort and luxury in the world at the command of her whims, she is unhappy. In the barren desert of her life a "sympathetic" and not uninteresting friend enters, and then it is so easy to drift along that she readily falls victim to the plot which will ultimately ruin her husband's political career. There is also the baroness, whose intrigue furnishes many a tense moment, and whose past gives a revealing background to the story.

You will talk about "NEGLIGENTS" for years after you get acquainted with him.

CLEO MAYFIELD, APPEARING IN "LOOK WHO'S HERE."

Who's Here." It has been accepted by critics as the liveliest and most enjoyable musical comedy of the season. Never in his career has Mr. Lean, whose fame is associated with such unforgettable successes as "Bright Eyes" and "The Blue Paradise," had so wide a range of opportunity to demonstrate his own particular brand of comedy that many have sought to imitate without success. Mr. Lean is seen at his best in the role of the popular, young novelist, who writes wonderful love stories that the girls go crazy over.

Miss Mayfield, too, is ideally cast as the sprightly matrimonial expert, diabolical of all marital ills. Combining rare talent with an ability to wear the latest and smartest creations that have earned for her the honor of being the "best-dressed woman on the stage," Miss Mayfield prove a splendid foil for Mr. Lean's efforts.

"Look Who's Here" owes its authorship to Frank Mandel, author of George M. Cohan's "Marry" and Edward Paulson. Silvio Hein has provided a haunting, melodious score. Among the many popular musical numbers are "Bubbles," "The Bell Hop Blues," "The Turk Had the Right Idea," "When a Wife Gets Fat," "Love Never Changes" and many others.

MACK SENNET COMEDY PART OF SUNDAY BILL.
A Mack Sennett Comedy, "The Quack Doctor" will be seen at the Alhambra together with the Gladys Walton picture, "Rich Girl, Poor Girl," Sunday.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD"
AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Plays may go and plays may come, but the great American classic, Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead" goes on forever. This rural classic has been amusing the theatergoers for the past thirty-four years and has played to more people than any other modern play, with the possible exception of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."
To the many thousands who have become fond of the delightful old play and its people, it may be interesting to know that Mr. Thompson took most of the characters from real life. Uncle Joshua is a composite reproduction of two persons who lived in West Swazey, one known as Captain Whitcomb and the other as Joshua Holbrook. The Captain furnished the comedy and Joshua suggested the more serious moments of the play. The original of Aunt Matilda was a sister of Joshua Holbrook and known to all the people of Swazey as Aunt Rhody, a tender, honest, faithful, respectable old woman. Cy Prime was a fellow townsman, who had the reputation of being the biggest liar in Cheshire county and Seth Perkins was a composite of several characters. Henry Hopkins was a real boy playmate of Denman Thompson who went to New York and "made good" and acquired wealth. The good wholesome philosophy of "The Old Homestead" was a living philosophy of a real Uncle Josh, and its people were from real life. At the Auditorium tonight.

"HIS WIFE'S FRIEND" AT ALHAMBRA TODAY.

Mystery stories in the movies have heretofore usually been left to the serial production, but in this Thomas Ince production a highly interesting play is seen, in which a baffling murder case is mingled with a love theme of more than ordinary appeal. The murdered man is an eccentric millionaire given to playing the game of chess in solitude and neglecting his young wife for the pleasure which the game gives him. A former sweetheart

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY IS NEXT EXCUSE FOR GAY PARTIES

Table decorated and set for the Valentine party feast and a crepe paper frock to wear to the party.

Next to Christmas to the youthful mind comes Valentine day, with its fun of making and giving valentines and its many fancy dress parties. The possibilities for the decorations on this day are unusually good and many pretty ideas are to be had for small sums from ten cents and up which are the prices of the paper sets and novelties most of the stores carry.

Nowadays the table decorations are about the simplest part of any luncheon. The illustration shows a table set with a paper cloth decorated with many red hearts and a garland border. Paper plates, paper napkins, paper baskets with little cupid attendants, paper streamers from a large paper cupid holding a love letter place cards delivered by a dove form a pretty and attractive decorations. A fortune may be attached to each favor or some little prophetic saying as to the heart affairs of each guest. The little heart-shaped baskets may hold small after-dinner candies or salted nuts.

Of course, all the dishes served at the luncheon or supper party, should have some sort of heart decoration or be in some way a reminder of the occasion. The dress which is illustrated may be readily made over from an old muslin slip or frock. It is fashioned of paper with hearts and garlands for decorations. The hat is also made of paper.

Milady's Boudoir

Wayward Nerves.

Will power is of first assistance in getting control of wayward nerves. Not a weak, anemic force, but a strong, efficient one that makes for unfailing perseverance. Many people possess will power that exercises well in many directions, especially when it concerns their own desires, but when the will should operate upon themselves it relaxes and becomes more of an enemy than a friend.

Women suffering from wayward nerves must expect to give some assistance themselves to overcome them. Your physician may prescribe a regimen calculated to relieve the high tension by building up the general health and eliminating worry, excitement and undue haste, but the sufferer must make an independent effort, aside from the medical aid given her.

The monotonous grind of daily work, whether it be in the home or a business office, should be broken by periods of physical exercise and mental exhilaration. The ideal day is separated into three parts, eight hours for sleep, eight hours for work and the remaining eight hours for recreation. Staying at home with but few outside interests and influences dulls the brain and makes one less companionable for the society of people who enjoy a certain amount of pleasure derived from outside sources. Reading should be undertaken as a means of education and as a diversion, especially with those books that tend to give the reader a higher, broader viewpoint of things. A humorous story makes an excellent tonic for nerves that jangle and will not be ignored.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mazy expect to start to Florida next Monday. Mrs. Myers of Port, N. D., formerly Miss Geneva Smith of Columbus, has returned home after visiting Mrs. Carl Swisher.

Mrs. A. M. Bader was removed in the Fitzsimmons ambulance this morning from 208 West Locust street to 201 North Fourth street.

Our Boys and Girls

It is a bad plan for children to be frightened by tales of the "Bogiemon," by stories of ghosts, or any of a similar nature. Simple stories can be told just as well, so why tell anything else to little ones. It is a wise mother who never allows scandal or published horrors to be discussed in the hearing of her child. Teach children to be kind, thoughtful and courteous to everyone, but especially to older people.

For a boy to be taught to lift his hat to a lady or give up his seat to an old man is to help that boy later on in life. Teach the children to be thoughtful of others and teach them to be generous as well. As a consequence, these boys and girls will grow up with a well balanced mind and when they reach years of understanding they will relegate to their proper places all that comes under their observation.

Everyday Etiquette

"Would it be correct for me to wear a linen colored dress about the house?" asked a young widow in mourning. "One can wear a color about the house if one wishes. It is better, however, to wear white as two years should pass before colors are donned," said her mother.

Czar Henry Fisk, aged 76 years, died Friday after midnight at his home near Rocky Fork, Ohio, following a long illness. He was born April 1, 1844 and was the son of Peter Fisk. Almost his entire life was spent in the vicinity of Rocky Fork, where he followed farming as an occupation. Mr. Fisk was a three parts, eight hours for sleep, eight hours for work and the remaining eight hours for recreation. Staying at home with but few outside interests and influences dulls the brain and makes one less companionable for the society of people who enjoy a certain amount of pleasure derived from outside sources.

Reading should be undertaken as a means of education and as a diversion, especially with those books that tend to give the reader a higher, broader viewpoint of things. A humorous story makes an excellent tonic for nerves that jangle and will not be ignored.

Louise Mae Shaffer.

Louise Mae Shaffer, daughter of George and Grace Shaffer, was born April 11, 1914, died Sunday, January 23, 1921. She leaves to mourn her loss a father, mother and one brother, Charles Frederick, four grandparents, one great grandfather, five uncles, four aunts and many other relatives and friends.

Previous to her last illness, she attended school at the Jones school, and Sunday school at the Eredonia M. E. church. She had been seriously ill from a complication of diseases since New Year's Day. Although her suffering was intense she bore it patiently, showing unusual mature thoughts for one of her age, and a deep appreciation of everything that was done for her.

Her stay with us has been very brief. She gladdened our hearts for a time, and then her spirit took its flight returning to God who gave it. We still have left a sweet memory of her and the thought to cherish that she is waiting to welcome us in the Heavenly Home.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness shown us during the illness and at the death of our little daughter and sister Louise Mae; also for their beautiful floral offerings.

What Every American Should Know About His Country and Its Opportunities

Thomas A. Edison as a Newsboy on a Train.

THERE have been issued in this country more than one million patents for inventions and devices of more or less importance and aid to every one. The world owes the inventor a great debt, for he is one of the great benefactors of mankind.

America stands high in the ranks of inventive genius. Within the last half century Americans have contributed, to mention only great achievements, the telephone, the electric light, the sewing machine, the reaper and vulcanized rubber, to the world's wealth—a far greater contribution than that of any other nation.

One of these benefactors of the human race is Thomas A. Edison, who is acknowledged by all to be the world's greatest inventor. Edison was born on his father's farm in Michigan.

While a mere youth he began experimenting and before he was eleven he had gathered together a remarkable chemical "laboratory" in the basement of his home. He became a newsboy on the train running between Port Huron and Detroit, and on this train he started a laboratory, using part of the unventilated smoking car which was never used by passengers. Next he installed a printing press in the car, and actually collected, wrote, set up and printed all the news for his Weekly Herald and sold as many as 400 copies a week. A fire having occurred in Edison's laboratory on the train, an enraged conductor pitched Edison and all his belongings off, and this ended his moving laboratory.

Edison's first important invention was an improvement on a telegraphic instrument. Another one was a stock ticker, which he sold to the Western Union Telegraph Company and received the sum of $40,000. This sum enabled Edison to open a plant of his own in Newark, N. J., and with this equipment, he began in earnest his laboratory work, from which have come the many epoch-making inventions that have made the name "Edison" a household word. Since the establishment of this first laboratory, Edison has made several hundred inventions; two of his most widely known achievements being the perfection of the electric light and the invention of the phonograph. Untold millions have been added to the wealth of the world because of the Edison inventions, and the pleasure and joy of living have been increased many fold by the ceaseless activity of this great inventor.

Although now past the age of seventy, Edison is still a tireless worker and his brain has lost none of its brilliancy.

Two for small buildings. In January 1920 five permits were issued although the total was for a much larger amount $118,650, the Phoenix Tire and Rubber building costing $115,000 being included.

Is A Tight Squeeze.

The steering apparatus on the patrol wagon of the police department broke Thursday and Driver Jim Donnelly now has to wedge himself in behind the steering wheel of the fire department wagon which is doing duty as patrol wagon until repairs can be made on the machine.

Case Is Dismissed.

The case of Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks and her mother Mrs. Caroline Groome against Emily Porter and Nora Smith was heard in municipal court this morning before Judge Bolton. A charge of disturbing the peace was dismissed by the judge and the prosecuting witnesses ordered to pay costs in the case.

Ill With Grip.

J. B. Kresser is quite ill at his home in Wing street suffering from an attack of grip.

Moving To Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geidenberg and son Joseph who have been living in Williams, are moving to Washington, Ind. Mr. Geidenberg has been transferred to Washington by his company.

Fined For Assault.

Marion Anton who was arrested Friday afternoon on affidavit of Joe Costu on a charge of assault and battery was fined $5 and costs in municipal court last night by Judge Bolton.

Ministers Plan Dinner.

The members of the Ministerial association will hold a stag supper at the Second Presbyterian church Monday night at 6 o'clock. Rev. Paul E. Tugge, pastor of the Methodist Church at Hebron, and for some years a missionary in China will address the meeting. Members are asked to phone 4775 for reservations.

BASKETBALL IS
30 YEARS OLD
Game Was Invented By Y. M. C. A. Physical Instructor Who Has Just Been Honored By College Men.

Lawrence, Kan., Feb. 5.—The honor paid to Dr. James A. Naismith by the National Intercollegiate Athletic association of America—life membership on the basketball rules committee—comes to him 30 years after he invented the game of basketball. Dr. Naismith is head of the department of physical education at the University of Kansas. Basketball was the result of a deliberate attempt to evolve a game suitable for men to play indoors. In 1891, Dr. Naismith was in charge of a gymnasium class at the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A., then an instructor college for athletes and association men. The men enrolled in the class were football, basketball and track athletes and became weary of the inside work consisting of boxing, wrestling and swimming. At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. instructors, someone suggested that invention is merely the use of things at hand. Dr. Naismith remarked that invention of a new game was possible. He concentrated for weeks on this idea. Football, lacrosse, hockey, soccer and other games, the doctor concluded, were too rough to be played indoors. He decided to work out his new game with a ball as a basis. Eliminating the features which made it extremely rough, tackling and kicking, he found on analysis, were at the root of the evil. He eliminated tackling by allowing the player to run when he does not have the ball; and by having the ball

LECTURE NO. 55.
Wiring Diagram.
Every owner of a car which has a starting and lighting system should have a wiring diagram of the electric system, and should not only have studied it, so as to be able to read it in case of need, but should keep it in the car. A wire may become detached, and often even experienced mechanics will be at a loss to know where it belongs unless guided by the wiring diagram.
As a rule, the wiring diagram is given in the instruction book of the car, or in a special instruction book furnished by the makers of the electrical equipment. If you have not such a diagram, it would be well to write to the makers for one.
In all wiring diagrams, for space's sake, certain symbols are used to indicate the various units and devices, and it is necessary to know the meaning of these symbols in order to be able to read the diagram. The same symbol is used by all makers and all diagrams to indicate certain of the devices and methods of wiring, but for others, such as switches, interrupter points, automatic contacts, there is no uniform symbol.
In the upper portion of the illustration I give a list of the symbols generally used, and where different symbols are used to indicate the same thing they are bracketed. I give these used by four of the makers whose equipment is the most often found on the automobile. Referring to the illustration:

No. 1 denotes a positive terminal and No. 2 a negative terminal. In connecting wires to the Battery, Generator or Motor, great care must be taken to connect the positive of the battery to the positive of the motor or generator, as shown by the diagram. When replacing a battery after charging, the negative or positive terminal if often grounded where the other should have been. You should observe how the battery is connected when taking it out, or refer to your diagram when replacing.
No. 3 represents a battery, either of dry cells or storage.
No. 4 represents a battery of dry cells.
No. 5 represents a storage battery.
No. 6 represents a grounded wire, that is, a wire attached to some metal part of the car.
No. 7 indicates a condenser.
No. 8 shows different symbols for a generator.
No. 9 shows different symbols for the starting motor.
No. 10 shows different symbols for a switch.
No. 11 represents fuses.
No. 12 shows different symbols used to indicate contact points, such as interrupter, automatic cut-out points, vibrator points, etc.
No. 13 shows the symbols for a coil wrapped about an iron core, as those used on cutouts, regulators, motor or

GAME FISHING
IS GOOD IN OHIO
State Game Protector Says It Is Not Necessary to Go Elsewhere For Fighting Fish.

Columbus, O., Feb. 5.—Sportsmen who want to go after fish and game, commonly associated with other parts of the country, will find much of that sport right in Ohio, according to A. C. Baxter, chief of the bureau of fish and game.
There is more hunting in Ohio today than any time in ten years and conditions steadily are improving, Mr. Baxter said. Game protectors have verified these statements, he continued, by reports from actual knowledge in the field.
"The man who wants the thrills of playing fighting fish, can get them right in his own state. The sportsman who likes to follow the dogs, need not go away from home," Baxter said. Ohio provides a wide variety of sport, much more than the average man thinks.
"The wilder sections of the state provide fine coon hunting, as well as rabbit hunting. In the more open territory in the central part of the state, there is good pheasant shooting for bird, dog and man. Duck hunting along Lake Erie is as good as anywhere in the middle west, but the territory now is owned by wealthy private clubs.
"Last season excellent bass fish was reported at East Harbor near Port Clinton; at Indian Lake in Logan county; Buckeye Lake in Licking county; Lake Loraine in Shelby and Lake St. Mary's in Mercer county. Crayfish and blue gills fishing also was good in the inland lakes during favorable weather conditions. Good muskellunge fishing was reported from Zanesville, in the Muskingum river.
"Ohio hatcheries have been working to their utmost capacity, but are not producing enough to supply the demand of fishermen. It is hoped if an angler's license bill is passed by the legislature, the revenue from it will help to propagation of more fish.
The betterment of hunting is ascribed by Baxter to the breaking up of violations, stopping the sale of game, and the co-operation of sportsmen and farmers' associations with the fish and game bureau.
